VAN HORNE

Francesca

Actress, writer and sometimes producer. My greatest wish is to live a joyful, creative and abundant life by collaborating with like-minded people and to pass this joy on to others, including my children. I've always wanted to be an actress since I was young. I used to dress in a Wonder Woman costume and create myself in imaginary worlds. That's all I ever wanted to do and the writing aspect of my work came into place later in my life.

What do I hate most? Well, I don't hate very much, so maybe peppers, lol "that's a good answer." Of course, my Italian side focus on food. The homelessness crisis is a pervasive problem that has always enraged me and needs to be addressed. I don't consider myself a fashion woman though I like fancy clothes and beautiful things.

I like to dress, but also very happy in sweatshirt and a baseball cap. After all, I am American. I think we are making great progress on gender equality, but we still have a long way to go. If I could change a part of myself, it would be feelings of indignity and doubt.

I'm especially passionate about creating characters that tell a story that's worth telling, that serve the audience in one way or another. I think women are more outspoken and more powerful than they have been. That's why I tend to write about them, like my "Two Sisters" script which is in the works
